CITY TRUSTEES

Telephone Given Permission to Erect Poles on Columbus Street High School Property Tax to be Remitted

All members present. The electric lighting manager made a report in regard to the erection of poles on Columbus street by the Home Telephone Co to the following effect:

Owing to inability to get a complete right of way south of the Valley View tract the telephone company will be allowed to rebuild their present line on Columbus street south of the Valley View tract to the south city limits.

The report was adopted. Mr. C. O. Pulliam, representing the high school district, appeared before the trustees in reference to certain lots bought by the district which had been sold for delinquent taxes, requesting that the city remit the taxes on the same amounting to $77. It was agreed to remit the taxes as requested. The special committee appointed to meet with the public utilities committee reported that they had met with that body and presented the recommendation of the trustees that a franchise be granted to the Pacific Electric permitting it to carry freight. Mr. Watson as special committee to attend to putting in boxes for telephones in city hall, had attended to the matter at a cost of $11. The city marshal made a report in regard to special order employed for Saturday and Sunday nights. Ordinance and judiciary committee submitted a map showing proposed changes in fire districts. Ordinance committee submitted a map showing proposed changes in fire districts. Ordinance committee submitted a map showing proposed changes in fire districts.

A report was received from the Consolidated Water Co. in accordance with demand of trustees for a statement of their business. The same was laid over. A request for the extension of the lighting system into the tract on First street known as Piedmont Park, was granted.

The bond election to authorize the issue of bonds to the extent of forty thousand dollars to extend the lighting system to West Glendale occurs today.

BIRTHDAY ANNIVERSARY. The eighty-fourth birthday of Mrs. Jane N. Dawson was fittingly celebrated at her home on Geneva street Wednesday afternoon last by her friends in the ranks of the W. C. T. U. and others. A number of tributes of a material nature were presented to the lady in a neat and appropriate speech by Rev. J. F. Humphrey. To this Mrs. Dawson replied in a happy vein, being interrupted by the throwing over her shoulders by Rev. Blackburn of a large American flag. Although taken altogether by surprise by this incident, Mrs. Dawson, under the inspiration of the emblem, delivered a brief, impassioned tribute to the nation's banner, pledging all present to march under no other. Rev. C. R. Norton made an address of congratulation. Mrs. Lillian S. Wells read some verses written for the occasion, and Mrs. Nanno Woods spoke an eloquent tribute to Mrs. Dawson for the work she had done in the cause of equal suffrage. Mrs. Norine Law, a fellow worker with the lady honored, expressed in warmest terms her appreciation of Mrs. Dawson, with whom she had been associated on "many a hard fought field." After this informal program refreshments were served. Another report of this interesting event, with some words of appreciation of Mrs. Dawson's unusual career, will appear next week.

CHAMBER OF COMMERCE.

At a regular meeting of this body Friday evening of last week, there was an election of officers and a new set of by-laws were adopted. When the meeting adjourned it was to meet again Monday evening for the purpose of completing the election of officers. At that time Mr. E. H. Riggs was re-elected secretary and Mr. Ed Lee treasurer. Three new members were elected to membership in the body. ANNEXATION

Both Sides Hard at Work and Confident—Home Lovers

Civic League Makes an Appeal—Voter's Questions Answered—Mr. Hartranft makes a Correction

In order to ascertain what truth if any there was in the stories being circulated by certain opponents of an annexation that the Pacific Electric intended to do certain things very undesirable if annexation carries and leave undone certain improvements hoped for, a committee waited on Mr. Paul Shoup, general manager, a few days ago. That gentleman informed them that the Pacific Electric is not interested in the matter of annexation and the result of the election one way or another will not affect their plans. They have no idea of taking up the track leading up to the foothills from the wash and as far as any plans for the East Side are concerned, if they do anything they will merely ask of the city of Glendale a satisfactory franchise.

To the Editor GLENDALE NEWS.

Dear Sir: Have you time and inclination to assist with such information as you have available a voter unacquainted with Glendale affairs, anxious to vote in the coming election not in a partisan spirit but for the good of the community, but finding only confusion of ideas in the sincere but apparently contradictory statements of intelligent people on both sides. So far as the annexation of the West Glendale and Casa Verdugo section is concerned, however perplexing the questions involved, the residents have at least the advantage of studying their own problems on their own ground. But as to the Casa Verdugo section, it seems so remote as to offer some excuse for vagueness of ideas, yet too great in extent and importance to be lightly considered.

Some points on which the writer feels the need of clearer information. Perhaps a simple yes or no, if more convenient than a comprehensive summary of the situation, might assist more than one.

PERPLEXED VOTER.

The Questions:

Is the annexation of the Verdugo canon district a measure endorsed and recommended by the city officials as essential to the welfare of the city of Glendale, or is it incidental to the admission of the Casa Verdugo section?

Answer. It is endorsed by the city trustees as a measure for the protection of the water supply from contamination.

Q. Are there any advantages to be sought by the city of Glendale in annexing Verdugo canon other than the essential to the welfare of the city of Glendale, or is it incidental to the admission of the Casa Verdugo section?

A. No others that we know of, and of these the protection of the purity of the water supply is paramount.

Q. Will the inclusion of the water-bearing territory within the city limits insure Glendale any water rights it does not already possess?

A. None, except to control the territory by city ordinances made to suit conditions.

Q. If the annexation of the canon will have the right to prohibit building there entirely until such time as it shall have an adequate sewer system, or will it proceed at once to build a sewer, and what is the estimated cost of such an undertaking?

A. No, to both. Q. It is a fact, is it not, that while the Verdugo Canon section is greater in area than all the rest of the annexation precinct, it is so much smaller in voting power that upon the people of West Glendale and Casa Verdugo on one side, and the citizens of Glendale on the other, must devolve almost the whole responsibility in the coming election of deciding the fate of their neighbors, several miles to the north?

A. Quite correct. Q. Also is the whole canon included in the annexation district, or is it true that while the bed of the valley and the western hills are included, the slopes at the foot of the eastern hills will still be outside the city limits?

If so, are these slopes inhabited, do they drain into the valley, and can Glendale thoroughly protect its water supply while these lands are not under its control?

A. Practically all of the water-bearing land west of the Verdugo canon road is included. The eastern slope has three or four houses. This slope does not drain into the city limits, but into the Verdugo wash.

Q. As to the storm water, is the whole line of the wash below the canon in the annexation district, or will a large section of it between Verdugo canon and Casa Verdugo still remain outside the city limits? Will the annexation of Verdugo canon then have anything to do with the control of storm water?

A. A large portion remains outside.

TO THE WOMAN VOTERS OF CASA VERDUGO FROM THE HOME LOVERS' CIVIC LEAGUE.

One of the purposes of our league, as stated in our by-laws is to the effect that we secure annexation to Glendale as the quickest means of securing a good school, lighted, improved streets, garbage collection, ordinances against dumping tin cans, bottles and trash on vacant lots, and to do other things which will benefit our homes and home surroundings.

If we belong to a city with trustees who have power to enact and enforce ordinances, we can hope to accomplish the things we speak of in regard to garbage, tin cans, bottles, clean streets, etc. These are the outdoor housekeeping duties which rest now upon women to accomplish.

But how about securing the school we speak of? Do you think Glendale will vote bonds for our school if we turn her down on annexation?

It does not remain in our power alone to secure either annexation or the school, as Glendale must also vote on both questions. If our community refuses to annex to Glendale, attacks their trustees, insinuating if not openly charging graft on the part of the trustees, criticizes their motives in the boundaries of proposed territory, this annexation, a personal grudge against Glendale, then how can we expect them to "generously support the bond issue" for our school?

It is beyond the scope of human nature and intelligence to expect it. Think over this question seriously! Note that the committee appointed to select the site is wholly if not entirely composed of rabid anti-annexationists.

They were appointed by a peace-loving chairman who is taking no part in annexation whatever and who appointed them before annexation question was agitated.

Now note that the Casa Verdugo Association is taking the liberty to claim they are the only ones trying to secure a school and have it in their power to do so.

One time they come out in print with this statement: "Glendale then offers us a school for our children on the condition that we will vote for annexation. To use the public schools as a bribe or threat will never win votes in an American community." Then comes this announcement by mail: "The association proposes to make an active campaign in the interest of the school bond issue for a new building in this district. Assurances have been received from many sources within Glendale that the bond issue will be generously supported there."

Such presumption! Almost equal to that of one of their leaders who declared in the presence of several ladies that no sane, grown man ever voted for suffrage, that a woman's reason was always "because," and that he could vote all his relatives, even to his mother-in-law!

Women arouse, awake! Are you going to be led to the poles on the word "because"? "Because we believe Glendale will give us nothing doing for us." "Because the trustees are slow, and a set of politicians." "Because we want to live in the country one block from car line with homes springing up all around us which need fire protection, plumbing inspectors, ordinances, sanitary regulations and, last but not least, a school?"

"Because Glendale only wants our rich territory to tax to help pay city officials." "Because they only want us to bond us." Right here the association constructive "plot is exposed." They say will incorporate a city of sixth class! Can a city be built by magic, in a night, like Aladdin's castle?

Would it not cost us something to incorporate and start a city government?

Then this handful of men left in this association since many of their strongest men have left them, dare to fling all the above accusations in the face of Glendale and then calmly announce that Glendale will vote a generous school bond issue!

In the name of civilization and decent citizenship how could we expect Glendale to be so generous?

There we are in the same school district under the direction of our county school superintendent who advises us to work harmoniously. How can we be in harmony in one thing and not in another?

We believe the women will use common sense and good judgment in this matter and not vote on Feb. 12th "just because."

We are appealing to you women as a band of earnest fellow citizens to cast your first ballot with great care. Do not be confused by all this political pow-wow and these personal attacks, but use your own brains—you have the right!

The association winds up their latest communication with this statement:

The present annexation scheme having been already practically defeated, the association will turn its attention to the constructive program which has resulted in bringing the school to its present stage.

February 12 will prove whether defeat or not, and pray what is the present stage of the school? Simply this, they are trying to select a site for the school and antagonize as many as they can in doing so. When the site is selected that does not mean a school. Remember, Glendale has to vote on the school bonds. So do we. Glendale votes on annexation. So do we.

We had to present a petition to Glendale for annexation before the election could be called. Then another petition had to be presented to Glendale trustees by Glendale citizens to make this election call legal. Then the association comes in and says this petition originated in Glendale.

So women understand. Two petitions had to be presented before this election could be called.

Then they also made this statement in print: "The annexation plot, made in Glendale." Will they (Casa Verdugo) vote for this scheme foisted upon them by a Glendale ring who have axes to grind?

All this, and still expect Glendale to generously support the school bonds?

Women, what are we made of? Now we are in a position to show whether we can reason or say "just because!"

Let us stand together on this question to be decided on Feb. 12th.

With malice toward none and charity for all, we should be getting on the explosion one of our noblest, truest, grandest statesmen, born a poor boy, reared in a humble home in Kentucky, rose from law student to president, and died a martyr to his country! Who is the man? Abraham Lincoln, on whose birthday we shall cast our first ballot, and on whose birthday it has been proven beyond a shadow of doubt, by reliable legal authority that this election may be held.

Let us celebrate it with credit and satisfaction to ourselves and not in malice and spite.

Let us think and act. We have the right!

Editor Glendale News.

Glendale, Cal.

Dear Sir: I desire to correct a misstatement which appeared in your issue of January 26th. In your report of a meeting of the Casa Verdugo Improvement Association you spoke as follows:

"Mr. Mesnager, who recently sold his property in the Verdugo Canyon to the Western Empire people, made quite a long talk, and protested vigorously against his property being annexed to the City of Glendale."

To put it mildly, this is somewhat of an "Irish bull." In order that the matter may be as clear as possible to you and your readers, and thereby do justice to Mr. Mesnager, we beg to say that we have not bought the Mesnager ranch, but only have held an option upon the same, which option we shall not exercise if the annexation election on the proposed lines should carry.

We have purchased the Park Tract, immediately adjoining the Mesnager ranch, upon which property we shall concentrate our activities if we find it impractical to handle the Mesnager property under the proposed annexation lines.

After acquiring an option on the Mesnager property and having prepared a financial plan whereby we would install a thorough sewerage system upon all of the land, we were prevailed upon to become interested in the Park Tract, so that its tangled affairs might be straightened up. We refused to consider the purchase of this Park Tract until we had reliable information that the annexation movement would include it in its boundaries and thereby provide the basis for a successful sewerage arrangement. We have never objected to the annexation of the several hundred acres of land in the Verdugo Park Tract. The arrangements for the annexation district, however, were handled by several committees, and when the time for conference came we found that the lines had been thrown farther north so as to include a part of the Mesnager and a part of the Vickers lands, taking a slice right out of the middle of each tract in a very impractical manner. We asked the Board of Trustees for a week, in which our engineers could meet and confer with the city engineer of Glendale, to so adjust the annexation lines and sewerage question that it would be settled for once and for all. The Board of Trustees were advised by the city attorney that it was mandatory upon them to call the election upon the pe-

LOMITA PARK RESIDENTS PROTEST

Don't Want Business Block—People of Lomita Protest

Mention was made in these columns last week of the fact that people residing in the vicinity of Lomita and Brand were agitated about the rumor that a business block was to be erected on the southwest corner of those streets. The property belongs to a Mr. Cohn of Los Angeles, who is credited with the intention of attempting to create a business district in that choice residence section. As a protest against such a move the following paper has been in circulation during the week and has been generally signed:

We, the undersigned residents of the Lomita Park section of Glendale, while congratulating ourselves and each other upon the rapid growth and development of Glendale in general and Lomita Park in particular, mutually attribute this growth and development of Lomita Park to the fact that the Park is and has been always a section developed entirely as a residential district; and, believing that any change of policy which would bring commercial establishments into the south end of Glendale would serve materially to check the growth of our section, and cause substantial damage to the interests of all property owners in and near Lomita Park and also indirectly injure the property interests of the whole city, therefore, we faithfully pledge ourselves to give no patronage, support or encouragement to any commercial business or enterprise which may hereafter seek to establish itself in the section bounded on the north by Sixth street, on the south by Maple avenue, the east by Glendale avenue and on the west by Central avenue. And we further promise and agree to patronize and support as far as practicable all legitimate business enterprises now established in Glendale or which may hereafter be established in the recognized business center of the city.

PROPOSED DICKENS FELLOWSHIP.

In response to a call issued by Caroline R. Eager, a fine representation of Dickens lovers met at the Hotel Van Nuys on Monday afternoon for the purpose of taking preliminary steps towards organizing a Dickens Fellowship in Los Angeles with the end in view of becoming affiliated with the parent Dickens Fellowship of London, England.

Mrs. Eager was chosen chairman of the (temporary) body and a committee was named to present suitable by-laws for the proposed organization to be acted upon at the next meeting to be held at the Hotel Van Nuys on Thursday February 8.

Mrs. Chas. H. Eager is the president and organizer of the Dickens Club of Inglewood which is one of the six of this country affiliated with the parent English organization. This lady is an enthusiastic Dickens lover and was a member in Boston of the first Dickens club in the world at which Charles Dickens' son was a one-time guest. A number of representative Glendale people were among those who responded to the call.

IMPROVEMENT ASSOCIATION APPEAL.

The executive board of the Glendale Valley Improvement Association takes this means of expressing its sincere appreciation of the hearty support rendered by the business men and women of Glendale and to those who gave their time and labor as a contribution to the success of the bazaar held on the 24th and 25th of January, 1912.

Every one connected with the same can feel assured that the board appreciates the work of all and if space did not forbid, would be glad to publish the work of each and all in full, but trust that this public acknowledgment will in a small way express the thanks of the board for the hearty co-operation of the whole people who took part.

The postal savings bank system in Los Angeles appears to be a great success. During the three months of its operation a quarter of a million dollars has been deposited. The depositors number about 3000, the most of whom are foreigners.

Gov. Johnson has relieved Figueroa, the Los Angeles wife murderer,
until March 1st, evidently for no adequate reason for the creature's crime was the most heinous imaginable, he having killed his young wife because she refused to be driven by him into a life of shame.

The inability of the people who were duped into contributing money to the McNamara defense fund, to get any accounting for the same, emphasizes the necessity for a federal law compelling labor unions to incorporate. Until such a law is put into force honest labor will continue to be at the mercy of designing leaders who stop at no crime if it promises to promote their selfish ends.

Our friend, Colonel Sidney Dell, is aggravated because the NEWS refused to print a communication of his attacking the board of trustees, particularly Trustee Watson, by innuendo,
for calling the annexation election. Mr.
Dell or any one else is allowed access to our columns to express any kind of an opinion in reasonable and courteous
language, but this paper is not a medium for the expression of offensive personalities.

Who was, or is, the greatest woman in all history? This question was asked of about two hundred school teachers, and with enthusiasm and unanimity the judges awarded the prize to the one who made this reply:
"The wife of a farmer of moderate
means who does her own cooking, washing, ironing, sewing, brings up a family of girls and boys to be useful members of society, and finds time for

Yesterday (Thursday) an annexation election occurred the proposition being to annex to Los Angeles considerable territory on the north and east. It includes the Washington Park section adjoining Tropic and Eagle Rock, Mt.
Washington, West Highland Park,
portions of Annandale and San Rafael Heights. The result is unknown as we go to press, but the probability is strongly in favor of its being decided affirmatively, as there has been no organized opposition.

THE LUXURY OF DOGS.

The first of February has arrived
and a large number of our fellow citizens are debating in their own minds
the question, "Is the family dog worth two dollars?" For the time to procure a license for him has again arrived. There are dogs and dogs. Primi-tively in the early days of the race
or later on the outskirts of civilization,
the dog came to be known as man's best friend. He still has his uses, but a dog in the city or in the house is generally a mischief, on the streets he becomes a public nuisance; hence the license. Pay for your luxury, fellow citizens.

Clarence Darrow, chief defender of the McNamaras recently in Los Angeles, and previously of Heywood in Idaho, has been indicted by the Los Angeles grand jury and is under $20,000 bail. The finger of suspicion has been pointing in Mr. Darrow's direction for quite a while, and it is evident that the grand jury thought the case against him pretty conclusive, or he would not have been indicted. Subornation of perjury is a very serious offense and is much too common a practice in criminal cases. If Mr. Darrow is found guilty his punishment will have a good deterrent effect upon that class of lawyers who think themselves justified in using any means to clear their clients.

VACCINATION AND SMALLPOX.

For the discomfiture of the people who do not believe in the success of vaccination as a preventive of small-pox, we cheerfully publish the following from a report by Victor G. Heiser, chief quarantine officer and director of health for the Philippine Islands:

"Since 1907 when systematic vaccination was completed of the six provinces near Manila, which have a population of 1,000,000 and which had an average annual mortality from small-pox of at least 6000 persons, not one person has died of smallpox who had been successfully vaccinated and only a few scattering cases have occurred.

"During the past five years not one person died in Manila of smallpox who had been successfully vaccinated during the five previous years, and no one has died in Manila of smallpox
since June, 1909."

MORE TREES ON THE HIGHWAY.

The county forestry commission in conjunction with the city authorities of Azusa, is planting trees along the sides of the foothill boulevard between Azusa and Monrovia. The varieties used are pines and oak, 6 1/2 feet apart.
Provision is made for taking care of the trees after planting by the same bodies. Here is a suggestion for Glendale to profit by. The system of county highways passes through this city in both directions. No doubt the county authorities would go in with the city here to plant trees along these highways, just as is being done at Azusa. Should the territory on the north be annexed by the election of Feb. 12th, three or four miles of the highway coming down the Verdugo canon would be in our city limits. A row of fine trees on each side would add immensely to the attractiveness of that highway. The road coming in from the east through Eagle Rock could be improved in conjunction with the latter city in the same manner.
We are glad to note that the pine and the oak tree are to be planted instead of the overworked black acacia or even the pepper tree. The popular idea that these trees are of slow growth is somewhat fallacious. They do not grow as fast as the others named, it is true, but with good care they grow surprisingly fast. There was an epidemic of street tree planting in Glendale three or four years ago and some good work was done in that line, but it passed and no general planting of trees has taken place since.

Forester Harper of Los Angeles recommended the black acacia at that time and his suggestion was pretty generally acted upon, which was unfortunate, for the tree is entirely lacking in beauty, there are many others that are really ornamental and which grow
as easily.

WHERE THE WATER COMES FROM

Residents of Glendale and vicinity who wish to know something about our water supply should take an afternoon off from pursuit of the sometime elusive dollar and go up into Verdugo canon on a tour of investigation. Get off at the park and follow the stream down until it enters the pipe and continue to follow it until it comes out in the division box below. Note the ingenious arrangements evolved from Zanjero Woodberry's master mind for keeping leaves and other floating substances out of the pipe, also the method of measuring and dividing the water. Measure it if you know how and you will find from 190 to 200
inches of the best mountain water.
Then turn and follow the stream toward its source which is just a little distance north of the road that runs across from the canon road to the old adobe ranch house.

A pipe carries the stream, very small at that point, under the road. Above the road a small open ditch alternating with open-jointed pipe leads up into the moist land above, a few hundred yards distant. There is something like a hundred acres of this moist land,
water within two feet of the surface.
The ditches which run up through the field have not been cleaned out for several years; when this work is done
as it probably will be soon, several inches of water will be added to the present stream. Above this point the Verdugos several years ago dug a great ditch across the head of this wet area down eastward through this ditch, but is led into a pipe now and into the main supply. One needs only to walk over this field to recognize the possibilities for water development, or to linger on the banks of the beautiful stream as it flows through the park, to feel a thrill of pride (if he be a water owner) in possessing even the smallest fraction of it, or if he be a water consumer, to have impressed upon his mind the pressing necessity of keeping this stream forever unpolluted by the too near and numerous presence of man.

WHY A TARIFF ON SUGAR?

The sugar beet growers of California are asking that the present tariff on sugar be maintained for the "protection" of that industry. The argument for protection is based upon the assumption that if the duty is removed foreign sugar will come in in quantities sufficient to compete more seriously with the home-made product than at present and will therefore cheapen it. In other words, the American consumers, some ninety millions of them, will get sugar cheaper!

It is certainly desirable from an economic standpoint, that we should have a diversity of industries, and other things being equal, that our home industries should be protected. But things are far from being equal in the sugar business. We do not produce in this country more than half the sugar consumed here and while the output of the home factories may very largely increase, it is doubtful if it keep pace with the increasing demand in the future. It will be a matter of regret if the farmers who are now doing well in the business of growing the beets should find the demand for their crops diminish or altogether cease to exist, but it is not a much more serious matter from the standpoint of the citizen who considers that the welfare of the whole people is more important than the prosperity of a part of them, that the ninety million consumers shall be taxed not for the benefit of the beet growers only, but for the sake of the sugar trust as well? It has been shown by testimony under oath that the cost of producing a pound of beet
sugar is about three and one-half cents,
but it is sold at the factory door for five cents or more a pound. If the natural conditions in our island possessions or in Cuba are such that sugar

can be produced at much less cost than here, why should not the culture of the sugar cane be encouraged there and the product admitted free to the United States, thus recognizing the welfare of the ninety millions who consume sugar as paramount?

The Casa Verdugo Improvement Association has discovered a "Plot," and as becomes an association of patriotic citizens, it proceeds to "expose" it.
The fault we find with it is that the exposition stops where it begins, in an assertion.

"True Progress," is the uplifting title of a publication put out by the association. There is just one matter contained in the paper mentioned which we believe it our duty as a newspaper to devote some attention to,
from the fact that if the allegation
has any basis of truth to stand upon the community should be informed of it as it is of great importance. As a matter of fact, we believe the statement to be absolutely untrue and the community should so regard it unless the people who make the assertion produce something that appears like evidence to support it. Under the title, "The Plot Exposed," we find the following in connection with a map accompanying it, the map alluded to being apparently correct.

"A five-foot string will be seen crossing Verdugo road at the extreme east part of the district, exposing the scheme to take in a water reservoir and a hidden scheme to unload upon the enlarged city a worthless water system." The map shows a small triangular piece on the east side of Verdugo road on Glendale's north line. In this triangle proposed to be annexed, according to the above quotation, is a water reservoir, consequently a "scheme" to take it into the city, and also consequently, "a hidden scheme"
to unload a worthless water "system."

New a little investigation should have shown the writer of the above quoted article a very material factial material to the truth of the assertion made, and that is that the reservoir alluded to is now and always has been in the city limits, a fact which the owners thereof regret. It is situated just south of the present city boundary. The reason for this five-foot strip across Verdugo road and the proposed annexation of the triangle is self evident. It is merely to straighten the boundary line and give the city control of both instead of one side of Verdugo road at that point. There is no other reservoir on the east side of Verdugo road, so there can be no doubt as to the one alluded to. The NEWS recognizes the right of citizens to fight for what they consider to be right and the further fact that the right is not always on one side, but it believes in fighting fair. References to "schemes" and "plots" in the present contest are not fair arguments
unless it can be proved that they actually exist, and no evidence of any truth in these assertions has been produced.

Legend of the "Mouth of Truth."
In front of the old basilica of Santa Maria in Cosmedin, at Rome, there is an enormous block of marble, resembling a huge face with a widely gaping mouth. It is called the Bocca della Verita, or "mouth of truth," and in the days of ancient Rome the legend
ran that if any one who had told a lie placed his or her hand within that yawning cavity the jaw would descend and cut it off. The Bocca della Verita is a large round stone of white marble about five yards in circumference. It is pierced with two holes representing eyes, an opening for a mouth, a slightly raised nose, and two locks of hair are carved on each side of the forehead. The stone is of great antiquity, and, according to some, it was laid on the altar of Jove, and those suspected of perjury were led to it and obliged to confess by much the same threats as are used to children now. It is most likely, however, that the stone served as a sluice to some ancient sewer, for others like it, used for this purpose by the Romans, have been found.—Wide World Magazine.

Still "Johnny."

One summer when an admirable ex-secretary of the navy was visiting his native village of Buckfield in Maine
he sent some clothes to the village washerwoman and, driving by the next week in company with a representative to congress, stopped to ask for them. The woman turned to her assistant. "May," said she, "is Johnny's washing done yet?"—Christian Register.

And Get a Lecture.

"Well, old man, how did you get along after I left you at midnight?
Get home all right?"
"No. A confounded nosy policeman bated me to the station, where I spent the rest of the night."
"Lucky dog! I reached home."— quired the engraver girl.

Apostrophe to Abraham Lincoln

With hair disordered and unkempt,
With looks and dress severely plain:
From any charge of style exempt,
Shall we ever see thy like again?

Walked ye among thy fellow-men
With awkward and ungainly gait, Thou wast in looks most glorious, when Holding so firm the helm of state.

Thou' long and large thy boy hand,
It penned the edict grand, that gave
Freedom to all throughout the land,
Struck every fetter from the slave.

No have had ye for courts and kings,
For emptiness and show combined,
But sought the excellence that springs
From grander domain of the mind.

That furrowed brow and care-worn face
Stamped ye as one of high degree
In raim of thought, commanding place,
Closely akin to Deity.

Out with the tide of hurrying years
"Forgotten names go rushing by,"
Brighter and brighter thine appears—
One of the few "not born to die."

With well-nigh woman's tenderness,
Honest, and simple as a child,
Thy memory this day we bless,
Our hearts with love for thee beguiled.

While love of liberty shall dwell
In freedom-loving patriot breast
Shall rise to son untinged tell,
How in thy life the world was blest.

Thou granite shaft should pierce the sky
More fitting monument shall be
The love and veneration high
In which our hearts are holding thee.

SAN DIEGO'S EXPOSITION.

San Diego, Jan. 26.—It is with a good deal of pride that San Diego is showing visitors progress on the building of the Panama-California Exposition, to be held in this city throughout the year 1915. Workmen are busily engaged on the first building, which has just received the roof and is to be used as the general offices of the exposition company and stands on the eminence in Balboa Park almost in the center of the city of San Diego. From its roof one can see a vista of land and sea, fifty miles in all four directions, the purple mountains of Mexico to the south, the Pacific ocean to the west, the Sierras to the east and the coast line to the north. Workmen also are working on the west entrance, where will be built a memorial arch which the Masonic bodies of the state of California will dedicate next April. One of the sights of San Diego in winter are the flower gardens and propagating firm in Balboa Park where the exposition nurserymen are busy growing millions of trees, ferns, palms and vines for decoration of the exposition grounds. One of the most beautiful of the buildings will be the forum, in imitation of ancient Greek and Roman auditoriums. Three sides will be open through which the sound of the concerts and the addresses of noted lecturers will reach thousands of listeners seated on the grass and under trees, the whole shaded and decorated with beautiful and rare trees. A great organ is to be built into this forum; it will be the third building completed, according to present plans. Over three thousand palm trees have just been planted in the canyons that lead up to the auditorium, over which the spectator may view the ocean, mountains and city, a vista that travelers say equals that at Naples, Italy.

Scientific Manager.

One cold winter day some railroad officials while making an inspection of a large yard stepped for a moment inside a switchman's shanty to get warm. Among them was a general superintendent who was known to have a mania for "scientific management" and the reduction of expenses. As they were leaving the switchman asked the traveling yardmaster, whom he knew:

"Now, can you tell me who that man is?"

"That's the general superintendent," the yardmaster replied.

"What do you think of that? He's a feline lookin' mou, and ye never would believe the tales ye hear 'bout 'im."

"What have you heard about him, Mike?" was the curious question.

"Why, they do say that he was at the funeral of Mr. Mitchell's wife and when the six pallbearers came out he raised his hand and said: 'Hold on a minute, boys. I think ye can get along without two of 'im.'—Everybody's Magazine.

"Know What a Prism Is?" John Smith and Henry Jones are eating lunch together. John Smith casually takes two cubes of sugar and places them side by side.

"That makes a perfect prism, doesn't it?" John Smith remarks casually.

"Prism?" nothing," replies Henry Jones. "That isn't a prism."

"Sure it is," remarks Smith. "Don't you know a prism when you see one?"

"I certainly do," is the retort. "A prism is a triangular piece of glass used to divide light into the primary colors. Can't you recall enough of your school days to remember that?"

"Oh, yes; I remember that all right. But these two cubes of sugar, placed side by side, make a prism too."

"Bet you the lunch you're wrong," challenges Jones.

"You're on," promptly agrees Smith, and a dictionary was sent for. If you don't believe it, look in a dictionary yourself and see.—St. Louis Post-Dispatch.

Hay In Church.

A curious custom has been observed from time immemorial at Old Weston, Huntingdonshire, in England. The church there is dedicated to St. Swithin, and on the Sunday most nearly approaching St. Swithin's day the edifice is strewn with new mown hay. The tradition is that an old lady bequeathed a field for charitable purposes on condition that the tenant provided the hay to lessen the annoyance caused by the squeaking of the new shoes worn by the villagers on Feast Sunday. There are other explanations—one that it is an offering of the first fruits of the hay harvest and another that it is a survival of the custom of strewing the church (when the floor was only beaten earth) with rushes.

A New Creation.

Margaret, aged eleven, had just returned from her first visit to the zoo. "Well," said her mother, smiling, "did you see the elephants and the giraffe and the kangaroos?" Margaret looked thoughtful.

"We saw the elephant and the giraffe and the kangaroos."

"What?" said Mrs. Blank.

"The kangaroos. It said, 'These animals are d-a-n-g-e-r-o-u-s.'—Harper's Magazine.

CHAPTER XIII.

THE MARITIME.

THEY were deep in a game of billiards the next morning, after the 11 o'clock breakfast, when Viaburi entered and announced:

"Big fella schooner close up." Even as he spoke, they heard the rumble of chain through hawse pipe, and from the veranda saw a big black painted schooner swinging to her just caught anchor.

"It's a Yankee," Joan cried. "See that bow! Look at that elliptical stern! Ah, I thought so!" as the stars and stripes fluttered to the masthead.

"Martha, San Francisco," Sheldon read, looking through the telescope. "It's the first Yankee I ever heard of in the Solomons. They are coming ashore, whoever they are. And, by Jove, look at those men at the oars. It's an all white crew. Now, what reason brings them here?"

"They're not proper sailors," Joan commented. "I'd be ashamed of a crew of black boys that pulled in such a fashion. Look at that fellow in the bow—the one just jumping out; he'd be more at home on a cow pony."

The boat's crew scattered up and down the beach, ranging about with eager curiosity, while the two men who had sat in the stern sheets opened the gate and came up the path to the bungalow. One of them, a tall and slender man, was clad in white ducks that fitted him like a semi-military uniform. The other man, in nondescript garments that were both of the sea and shore and that must have been uncomfortably hot, slouched and shamled like an overgrown ape. To complete the illusion, his face seemed to sprout in all directions with a dense bushy mass of red whiskers, while his eyes were small and sharp and restless.

Sheldon, who had gone to the head of the steps, introduced them to Joan. The bewildered individual, who looked like a Scotchman, had the Teutonic name of Von Bliz and spoke with an American accent. The tall man in the well fitting ducks, who gave the English name of Tudor—John Tudor—talked purely enunciated English such as any cultured American would talk, save for the fact that it was most delicately and subtly touched by a faint German accent.

Von Bliz was rough and boorish, but Tudor was gracefully easy in everything he did, or looked, or said.

They were on a gold hunting expedition. He was the leader and Tudor was his lieutenant. All hands—and there were twenty-eight—were shareholders, in varying proportions, in the adventure. Several were sailors, but the large majority were miners, culled from all the camps from Mexico to the Arctic ocean. It was the old and ever unending pursuit of gold and they came to the Solomons to get it. Part of them, under the leadership of Tudor, were to go up the Balaena and penetrate the mountainous heart of Guadalcanar, while the Martha, under Von Bliz, sailed away for Malaita to put through similar exploration.

"And so," said Von Bliz, "for Mr. Tudor's expedition we must have some black boys. Can we get them from you?"

"In the first place we can't spare them," Sheldon answered. "We are short of them on the plantation as it is."

"We?" Tudor asked quickly. "Then you are a firm or a partnership? I understood at Gurnut that you were alone, that you had lost your partner." Sheldon inclined his head toward Joan, and as he spoke she felt that he had become a trifle stiff.

"Miss Lackland has become interested in the plantation since then, but to return to the boys. We can't spare them, and, besides, they would be of little use. You couldn't get them to accompany you beyond Blinn, which is a short day's work with the boats from here. They are Malaita men, and they are afraid of being eaten. They would desert you at the first opportunity. You could get the Blinn men to accompany you another day's journey through the grass lands, but at the first roll of the foothills look for them to turn back. They likewise are disinclined to being eaten."

"Is it as bad as that?" asked Von Bliz.

"The interior of Guadalcanar has never been explored," Sheldon explained. "The bushmen are as wild men as are to be found anywhere in the world today. I have never seen one. I have never seen a man who has seen one. The Austrian expedition—scientists, you know—got part way in before it was cut to pieces. The monument is up the beach there several miles. Only one man got back to the coast to tell the tale. And now you have all I or any other man knows of the inside of Guadalcanar."

"But gold—have you heard of gold?" Tudor asked impatiently. "Do you know anything about gold?"

Sheldon smiled, while the two visitors hung eagerly upon his words.

"You can go two miles up the Bala-ena and wash colors from the grave. I've done it often. There is gold no doubtably back in the mountains."

Tudor and Von Bliz looked triumphantly at each other.

"Old Wheatsheaf's yarn was true, then," Tudor said, and Von Bliz nodded. "And if Malaita turns out as well!"

Tudor broke off and looked at Joan.

"It was the tale of this old beachcomber that brought us here," he explained. "Von Bliz befriended him and was told the secret." He turned and addressed Sheldon. "I think we shall prove that white men have been through the heart of Guadalcanar long before the time of the Austrian expedition."

Sheldon shrugged his shoulders.

"We have never heard of it down here," he said simply. Then he addressed Von Bliz. "As to the boys, you couldn't use them farther than Blinn, and I'll lend you as many as you want as far as that. How many of your party are going and how soon will you start?"

"Ten," said Tudor; "nine men and myself."

"And you should be able to start day after tomorrow," Von Bliz said to him. "The boats should practically be knocked together this afternoon. Tomorrow should see the outfit portioned and packed. As for the Martha, Mr. Sheldon, we'll rush the stuff ashore this afternoon and sail by sundown."

As the two men returned down the path to their boat Sheldon regarded Joan quizzically.

"There's romance for you," he said. "and adventure—gold hunting among the cannibals. Aren't you sorry you became a coconut planter?"

"What do you think of them?" she asked.

"Oh, old Von Bliz is all right, a solid sort of chap in his fashion; but Tudor is a flyaway—too much on the surface, you know. If it came to being wrecked on a desert island I'd prefer Von Bliz."

"I don't quite understand," Joan objected. "What have you against Tudor?"

"A man of Tudor's type gets on my nerves. One demands more repose from a man."

Joan felt that she did not quite agree with his judgment, and, somehow, Sheldon caught her feeling and was disturbed. He remembered nothing how her eyes had brightened as she talked with the newcomer.

A second boat had been lowered, and the outfit of the shore party was landed rapidly. A dozen of the crew put the knocked down boats together on the beach. There were five of these craft—lean and narrow, with flaring sides and remarkably long. Each was equipped with three paddles and several iron shod poles.

"You chaps certainly seem to know river work," Sheldon told one of the carpenters.

"We use 'em in Alaska. They're modeled after the Yukon poling boats, and you can bet your life they're crackjacks. This creek'll be a snap alongside some of them northern streams. Five hundred pounds in one of them boats or two men can snake it along in a way that'd surprise you."

At sunset the Martha broke out her anchor and got under way, dipping her flag and saluting with a bomb gun. The union jack ran up and down the staff, and Sheldon replied with his brass signal cannon. The miners pitched their tents in the compound and cooked on the beach, while Tudor dined with Joan and Sheldon.

Their guest seemed to have been everywhere and seen everything and met everybody, and, encouraged by Joan, his talk was largely upon his own adventures. Descended from old New England stock, his father a consul general, he had been born in Germany, in which country he had received his early education and his accent. Then, still a boy, he had rejoined his father in Turkey and accompanied him later to Persia, his father having been appointed minister to that country.

Tudor had gone through South American revolutions, been a rough rider in Cuba, a scout in South Africa and a war correspondent in the Russo-Japanese war. He had mushed dogs in the Klondike, washed gold from the sands of Nome and edited a newspaper in San Francisco. The president of the United States was his friend. He was equally at home in the clubs of London and the continent, the Grand hotel at Yokohama and the selectors' shanties in the Never Never country. He had shot big game in Siam, perished in the Paumotu, visited Tolstoy, seen the Passion play and crossed the Andes on muleback, while he was a living directory of the fever holes of west Africa.

Sheldon leaned back in his chair on the veranda, sipping his coffee and listening. In spite of himself he felt touched by the charm of a man who had led so varied a life. It seemed to him that the man addressed himself particularly to Joan. Sheldon watched her rapt attention, listened to her spontaneous laughter, quick questions and passing judgments and felt grow within him the dawning consciousness that he loved her. Then as if the scene had been prepared by a clever playwright, Utami came upon the veranda to report to Joan the capture of a crocodile in the trap they had made for her.

Tudor's face, illuminated by the match with which he was lighting his cigarette, caught Utami's eye, and Utami forgot to report to his mistress. "Hello, Tudor," he said with a familiarity that startled Sheldon.

"The Polynesian's hand went out, and Tudor, shaking it, was staring into his face.

"Who is it?" he asked. "I can't see you."

"Utami."

"And who the dickens is Utami? Where did I ever meet you, my man?" "You no forget the Hushline?" Utami chided. "Last time Hushline sail?"

Tudor gripped the Tahitian's hand a second time and took it with genuine heartiness.

"There was only one Kanaka who came out of the Hushline that last voyage, and that Kanaka was Joe. The deuce take it, man, I'm glad to see you, though I never heard your new name before."

"Yes, everybody speak me Joe along the Hushline—Utami my name all the time, just the same."

"But what are you doing here?" Tudor asked, releasing the sailor's hand and leaning eagerly forward.

"Me sail along Missie Lackland's her schooner Miele. We go Tahiti, Ralatea, Tahaa, Bora-Bora, Manua, Tutuila, Tapa, Savail and Fiji islands—plenty Fiji islands. Me stop along Missie Lackland's in Solomons. Very soon she catch another schooner."

"He and I were the two survivors of the wreck of the Hushline," Tudor explained to the others. "Fifty-seven all told on board when we sailed from Huapa, and Joe and I were the only two that ever set foot on land again. Hurricane, you know, in the Paumo-

"AND WHO THE DICKENS IS UTAMI?" Tudor asked. "That was when I was after pearls."

"And you never told me, Utami, that you'd been wrecked in a hurricane," Joan said reproachfully.

The big Tahitian shifted his weight and flashed his teeth in a conciliating smile.

"Me no tink nothing 't all," he said. "All right, Utami," Tudor said. "I'll see you in the morning and have a yarn."

"He saved my life, the beggar," Tudor explained, as the Tahitian strode away with heavy softness of foot went down the steps. "Swim! I never met a better swimmer."

And thereat, solicited by Joan, Tudor narrated the wreck of the Hushline, while Sheldon smoked and powdered and decided that whatever the man's shortcomings were, he was at least not a liar.

W. C. T. U. NOTES.

WHY I FAVOR PROHIBITION.

Robert J. Burdette.

Now about the power of prohibitory laws to prohibit. The laws of the state against murder do not entirely prevent murder. But, nevertheless, I am opposed to licensing one murderer to every so many thousand persons, even on petition of a majority of the property owners in the block, that we may have all the murder that is desirable in the community under wise regulations, with a little income for the municipality. I believe in the absolute prohibition of murder.

The laws of the country prohibiting stealing do not entirely prevent stealing. Nevertheless, I am opposed to a high license system of stealing, providing that all theft shall be restricted to certain authorized thieves, who shall steal only between the hours of, say, 6 a. m. and 11:30 p. m., except Sunday, when no stealing shall be done except by stealth, entrance to be made in all cases on that day by the back door, and at the thief's risk. I believe in laws that absolutely forbid theft at any hour on any day of the week.

And, on the same ground, and just as positively, do I believe in the prohibition of the liquor traffic. And I never said I did not. And I did say that I did. And I do.

I do say that the best way to make a man a temperate man is to teach him not to drink. But a saloon is not a kindergarten of sobriety. Your town is under no obligation to any saloon. All that it is, in respectability and permanent prosperity, it has grown to be without the assistance of the liquor traffic.

It is deliberately claimed by some people, who appear to be sane on other subjects, that properly to instruct a sober people in ways of sobriety, and to teach total abstinence the beauty and virtues of temperance, you must license the selling of liquor in the town. The man who originated that idea ought to have it stuffed and exhibited at the Panama Exposition, and he should be leaped up beside it as a part of the exhibit.

As to prohibition in Pasadena, if any liquor man thinks there is big money and a safe thing in running a "blind pig" in Pasadena, let him come here and try it. If he has any love for his liberty and pocketbook, however, he will do well to consult the fellows who have tried it, if he can find them; we can't. They are in hiding somewhere out in the desert.

"Running" a "joint" in Pasadena, is like running a powder mill in a smelting furnace. It's mighty exciting while it lasts, but it doesn't last long enough to be profitable. If the saloon men insist on quoting me on this topic, let them commit this to memory, that they may repeat it as they need it: I do not know one good thing about the saloon. It is an evil thing that has not one redeeming thing in all its history to commend it to good men. It breaks the laws of God and man. It desecrates the Sabbath; it profanes the name of religion; it defiles public order; it tramples under foot the tenderest feelings of humanity; it is a moral pestilence that blights the very atmosphere of town and country; it is a stain upon honesty; a blur upon purity; a clog upon progress; a check upon the nobler impulses; it is an incentive to falsehood, deceit and crime. Search through the history of this hateful thing, and read one page over which some mother can bow her grateful head and thank God for all the saloon did for her boy. There is no such record. All its history is written in tears and blood, with smears of shame and stains of crime and dark blotches of disgrace.—The Union Signal.

Remember the W. C. T. U. meeting Friday, 2:30, at the home of Mrs. Alice Ayers, 207 Cedar street. Rev. Julius Soper, D. D., missionary to Japan, will talk to us, and it will indeed be an interesting meeting.

REV. HENRY'S HOUSE ROBBED.

Rev. Henry's residence corner of Ninth and Central avenue, was entered Saturday last during the absence of the family and robbed of a long list of valuable jewelry. Entrance was made by a window and the thief or thieves seem to have had ample time to ransack the house. Miss Henry, who was in charge, returned home late in the afternoon and made the discovery that the house had been entered. Marshal Miller thinks it was the work of an amateur, but up to the present time no positive clue seems to have been obtained. Rev. and Mrs. Henry have for some months been in Nevada.

Smith of Riverside Drive who has been engaged in the millinery business in Los Angeles for some time past in connection with Miss Leonora Miller, opens up an establishment in the same line this week at 322 Brand boulevard, where both ladies will be found hereafter preparing to attend to the wants of the ladies in the way of high-class and artistic millinery.

THE SCHOOLS

High School Doings and Conditions.

The Glendale city schools observe next Wednesday, Feb. 7, as the annual visiting day. The teachers of the various departments have already planned visiting schools where they may observe work similar to their own.

The intermediate school has just added two new courts, making three basketball courts on their grounds. Wednesday is game evening. The intermediate played a team from the Ninth grade, Glendale Union High school last Wednesday afternoon, the score resulting 25 to 12 in favor of the intermediate school team.

The Parent-Teacher Association of the Sixth street school give an entertainment on the evening of Feb. 2. The pupils and teachers of each department of their school assist in the program.

County superintendent of schools, Mark Keppel, finished a series of visits to our several schools last week and expressed great satisfaction as to the conditions existing throughout the entire system.

Mr. Addison is deserving of great credit for the splendid and prompt service he is giving the district in the erection of the new intermediate school building. He will undoubtedly complete the building in the scheduled time. He has rushed the wings of the structure which is to be used for sloyd and expects to arrange for the boys' classes to begin using this room next week. The boys will certainly find this room an improvement on the dark basement now in use.

AT THE HIGH SCHOOL.

The total enrollment is 288. This week completes the first half year and examinations are absorbing the attention of faculty and students. After school hours, however, there is "something different" in the way of athletics, for the interclass track meets are being tried out. One of these came off on Monday, another on Wednesday evening and the third occurs Saturday the 3rd. The first trial resulted in the freshmen getting the best of the score, 13 points to the 10 points of the seniors.

Sarah E. Bailey, a graduate of the Sac City, Iowa, high school, is the latest addition on the roll, she enters for some special work.

Mr. Root was called into Los Angeles last Friday evening to act as judge at the debate at the Polytechnic high.

Mr. Moyse and Mr. Scott of the faculty; Harold Story, Chas. Schlick, Earl Farnsworth and Willard Brown, representing the pupils, were guests of the Y.M.C.A. in Los Angeles Monday evening at dinner, the object of the meeting being to make preparations for a banquet to be given at Hamburger's restaurant Feb. 10th, when the Students League will be addressed by Dr. W. T. Grenfell of Labrador fame. This league is an organization of students pledged to the three chivalries—Clean life, clean speech, clean play, and is doing an excellent work in the way of moral uplift. It is expected that fully 800 will sit down at the banquet.

The concert of Friday was an excellent performance in every way, the attendance was not as large as its merits warranted. Selections from the school organizations, the orchestra, boys chorus and quartet, girls chorus and glee club, all did excellent work. Miss Dale's performance on the piano was very fine and highly appreciated. Julius Kranz on the violin was of course fine. The De Nubila trio, with Madame Menasco on the cello was exceptionally enjoyable and responded to an encore.

The students under Mr. Root's direction in debating are preparing for the interclass contest which is to decide upon the champions to represent the school at the contest at Santa Monica March 15th. The question now being considered is "Resolved, That Italy was justified in her treatment of Turkey which brought about the present trouble between those countries."

Next Saturday the basketball team goes to Santa Monica to play. The next league game will be played at Glendale Saturday the 10th. Should Glendale win at Santa Monica, the game to follow at Long Beach will be to decide the championship.

The San Fernando track meet occurs at that place Feb. 17th.

County Supt. Keppel spent all day Monday last at the school and expressed his pleasure at conditions as he found them.

Principal Moyse is gratified at the general interest manifested by the pupils in their work which is above the average of preceding years.

Probably no branch of the school work is so enthusiastically entered into as that in the sloyd department. The thirty or so pupils there under the direction of Mr. Moore are making excellent progress as is shown by the numerous samples of work done by them.

WORTH WHILE CLUB.

A very interesting meeting of the Worth While Club was held Monday evening, Jan. 22, with Miss Maudie Smith on Maryland avenue. Miss Smith led in the study of Shakespeare and after a brief review of some of his plays, by members of the club and a piano solo by Miss Celia Wilson, the club was delightfully entertained with a talk by Miss Wells of Eagle Rock who with Miss Smith, was a member of a party traveling abroad a few years ago. Miss Wells described Shakespeare's early home and its surroundings as only one who has seen it would be able to do. The meeting proved very interesting as well as helpful.

The concert at K. of P. hall tonight (Friday) will be worth more than the money.

Miss Nell Chase, formerly a resident of this place and well known here, passed some time this week visiting old friends in this city and Glendale.

Mr. and Mrs. Van Kollin, who for the past year have been residing in different portions of Southern California, have returned to Tropico to remain permanently. They vow there is no place like Tropico.

The political net is sizzling in this city already. There are many rumors as to the candidates to be put up, one of the principal ones being that Judge Shney will be a candidate for the office of city clerk.

John Kirkham, Jr., left this week in company with his boys, Gerald, Willie and Ruben, for the country near El Monte, where they have leased a large piece of ground, and are planting it to potatoes.

At the Tropico Methodist church Sunday morning, Miss Laura Charlock, a missionary to the Yuma Indians, will speak at the morning service. In the evening Rev. Carnes will preach from the subject, "Walking Worthily."

Improvement work has started on Cypress avenue. This week sidewalk and curbing was laid from San Fernando road to Central avenue while a number of the workmen are engaged in grading the section of this avenue between Central avenue and Brand.

The Knights of Pythias lodge of this place held a very enjoyable and well-attended dance in Logan's hall on San Fernando road, Wednesday evening. The affair was one of those well-appointed occasions for which this lodge is noted.

The Ladies Aid of the Methodist church of Tropico will give a chicken dinner in the G.A.R. hall on Glendale avenue on Washington's birthday, Feb. 22. The dinner will be served from 5 until 8 o'clock in the evening. During the evening a musical and literary program will be rendered. The public is invited.

The basketball team of the Tropico grammar school was defeated on the home grounds Tuesday evening by the scrubs from the Burbank high school by a close score. The Tropico boys are now living in hopes that they may have another game with the victors in the near future.

A social will be given in the parlors of the Presbyterian church on Central avenue on the evening of Feb. 9. It will be given under the auspices of the Baraca and Philathea classes of the Presbyterian Sunday school. Games and refreshments appropriate to Valentine's day are on the program.

Efforts are being made by several Los Angeles men to locate a picture show in Tropico. The attention of these men is centered on the Gabalg block, where it is rumored they are trying to get a lease for ten years. They claim they will take, providing Mr. Gabalg will make an extension of twenty feet on the rear of the room.

Dr. Ludke, formerly an expert chicken fancier of Oxnard, but now residing at this place, has put on the market a preparation called San-pol. The label bears the following: "The sanitary powder which insures immunity from disease and insects." It is Mr. Ludke's intention to form a company and erect a factory in Tropico for the manufacture of the preparation.

C. B. Robinson, who has been conducting a small refreshment stand at the corner of Park avenue and Brand boulevard, has just completed the erection of a bungalow grocery on the site of his refreshment stand. He has put in a supply of staple and fancy groceries, tobacco, etc. Mr. Robinson claims that business is good and is growing. He is being assisted by his brother, Hern Robinson.

The Epworth League of the Tropico Methodist church will give a valentine social in the church on Friday evening, Feb. 9. An appropriate program is being arranged and will be given. Many games with the valentine flavor will be played during the evening. Refreshments consisting of ice cream and cake will be served. The public is invited to attend and in addition to helping a good cause, have a rousing good time.

The committee in charge of the dedication of the Knights of Pythias hall in the Gabalg block has announced that the hall will be formally opened on Monday evening, Feb. 12. A number of prominent officers from the Grand lodge will be present and assist in the service. Invitations for the event will be issued within a few days. The committee in charge of this event consists of A. M. Watson, George Dodson, George Merrick, W. J. Hibbert and F. H. Davis.

A party of young ladies from this section and El Monte enjoyed a week-end party at Irwindale recently. The young folks staid in the little eastern town from Friday evening until Monday morning and claim to have had the time of their lives. The party included Miss Margaret Eddelman of Central avenue, Tropico; Miss Blanche Davenport of Glendale avenue; Miss Lillian Eaton of Lomita avenue, Glendale; Miss Faith Sense of Burbank; Miss Ruth Green of El Monte; Miss Bertha Warren of El Monte.

While on the way to Los Angeles early Wednesday morning the horse driven by Will Marple, proprietor of the Jiffy Express, fell, breaking a shaft, the end of which was driven into her leg. The accident occurred just north of the Armour's car barns. The new asphalt road was wet and while turning out for another wagon to pass, the horse slipped. The animal was taken to a surgeon in Los Angeles, where she is being cared for.

A Disgraceful Affair

A company of young folks from Los Angeles had the time of their lives in Logan's hall on San Fernando road, last Saturday evening. The affair was undoubtedly the most disgraceful ever held in this valley. The crowd brought intoxicants with them from Los Angeles and proceeded to have a merry time. The early part of the evening went off all right, but after the "boozie" got in its work its effect on the unruly crowd was somewhat different. Two of the fellows started an argument which developed into a fight and before anyone could draw half a dozen breaths the affair had grown into a free-for-all fight. Chairs and cuspidors were thrown about the room, resulting in the crippling of several of the toughs, several of whom were girls. At last reports we understand that two of the young fellows are in a hospital in Los Angeles, where it is expected that they will not recover. It must be understood that those attending this affair were all from Los Angeles, none of the young folks of this place being present. It must also be said in defense of the Knights of Pythias lodge of this place, which has charge of the renting of the hall, that they understood that the affair was to have been given by a company of local people, and that if they had believed it possible that such a crowd was bound for Tropico they would have not been allowed to enter the hall.

DEATH OF MRS. W. D. LATHROP.

Mrs. W. D. Lathrop died at her home, 1509 Hawthorne street, on Saturday last, about noon, the cause of her death being asthma, from which she has suffered greatly at times for the past year. The end came very suddenly, but peacefully, she simply dropped into a deep sleep from which she never awakened. It came as a great shock to her husband, who has been her inseparable companion throughout their years of married life, and who ministered to her wants with the utmost cheerfulness. Mr. and Mrs. Lathrop came to Glendale a short time ago, and purchased the property of J. W. Everett upon which they made quite a few improvements, and upon the arrival of their household goods from Boston and North Carolina, the latter place being the home of their only daughter, they intended to fit up their residence in a most comfortable manner, and enjoy years of happiness. Mrs. Lathrop was a woman of culture and refinement and despite her trouble was of a sweet disposition, and made a number of friends in the short time that she was in Glendale. The funeral, under the auspices of the funeral home, the body being cremated at Rosedale cemetery on Tuesday afternoon at 3 o'clock. Friends from Glendale and Pasadena and Los Angeles attended, also members of the G.A.R. The Rev. A. B. Morrison had charge of the services.

ANNEXATION

tion already filed, for which reason no time could be given for any conference whatever. We have always felt that some way should have been invented to have given us a week to confer, as we were in no wise opposed to the proposition of establishing a complete sewer system in the Verdugo Valley, for which we had fully prepared on a wider scope than that of the present lines.

We naturally are opposed to annexation on the present lines, as it needlessly and harmfully upsets our plans with respect to the Messenger and Victoria lands, which just now we believe were as well calculated to serve Glendale's interests as to serve our own.

Yours very truly,
M. V. HARTMAN, President.

HEART TO HEART TALKS ON DRESS.

Never in the history of dress has there been so many styles of garments worn by men and women. It is an age of style. Some say you might as well be out of the world as out of style. We think different. Now listen! If you will visit C. C. Arrowsmith in his new tailoring parlors 568 W. Fourth street, he will tell you how to dress better for less, either in high art tailoring or in expert cleaning, pressing or dyeing. It is to his interest to have you dressed in style, for that is his business. If you cannot come, phone him, Sunset 592 R, and he will call.

GRAND OPERA HOUSE FOURTH WEEK OF "THE CAMPUS."

Without any question "The Campus" Walter deLeon's remarkable musical play of college life, is the most popular and the best offering Ferris Hartman and his capable company have ever offered at the Grand Opera house. This fact is attested by the protracted run the piece enjoyed last season when it was played for sixteen consecutive weeks to capacity houses at every performance, and it is further proved by the announcement that in order to supply the demand for seats for "The Campus" the management of the Grand has been forced to continue the piece for another week, making the fourth of its run this season. The original Campus Company, which scored a triumph last season in Los Angeles and repeated while on tour of the eastern circuits, is playing the piece now. Ferris Hartman, Walter deLeon and Miss "Muggins" Davies head the list. All the Hartman favorites, including Miss Myrtle Dingwall, Miss Jessie Hart, Robert Leonard, Oliver Lenoir, Joseph Forsythe, Lawrence Bowers, and Harry Pollard, are in the cast. The chorus is bigger and better than ever before. The songs and dances in the three acts of "The Campus" are executed in a manner which would put to blush a traveling organization. The fourth week of the second series of "The Campus" will begin Sunday at the matinee and will include matinees on Tuesday and Saturday.

BURBANK THEATRE—"THE DOLLAR MARK."

George Broadhurst's tremendously popular play, "The Dollar Mark," will have an elaborate revival at the Burbank Theatre this week, commencing with the matinee Sunday afternoon. No play that ever has occupied a Los Angeles stage has achieved the same degree of local success that came to "The Dollar Mark" when it was initially played in this city and earned a new world's record for continuous stock company performances—one hundred and one presentations, covering a period of ten weeks. The demand for the revival of the preeminent popular piece has been so keen that the Burbank management was compelled to change its schedule of plays so as to permit of the production of "The Dollar Mark" this week instead of "Mrs. Wiggs of the Cabbage Patch," advertised to be seen at the Burbank Sunday afternoon.

Every element that enters into the making of a popular play is found in "The Dollar Mark." The comedy is most plentiful, there is a particularly strong and interesting love story, and the fight of young James Gresham, the hero of the Broadhurst story, against the money interests as represented by the Consolidated Copper is so hand-capped by every conceivable obstacle that the sympathy of the average theatergoer goes out to the young man at once.

The Burbank company is especially well qualified to give a good performance of "The Dollar Mark." Of course David M. Hartford will again be seen in his original role of Carson Bayless, the dominant figure of the interests grouped under the heading of the Consolidated Copper—evidently intended as a thin disguise for the Amalgamated Company. This is the best part Hartford has ever played during his extended career in Los Angeles, and the Burbank patrons are seen of a fine, virile, intelligent and compelling performance from this popular actor. The part of Martin Corrigan, who may be expected to score a signal success. Forrest Stanley is certain to offer a likable portrayal of the hero of the play, James Gresham, while Henry Stockbridge, as Bayless's son, will reveal in the comedy opportunities that will come to him through wealth as a player of "heavies" last week in "The Wife," will have further opportunities for some of his most effective work in the part of Wallace Chandler, Virginia Brissac should make a delightful Alice Chandler, while Lola May, as the pet little manœuvre who marries young Bayless, will have excellent chance to demonstrate her talents as a comedienne.

Grace Trevers, Florence Oberle, Lillian Elliott, Willis Marks, Jack Bell and all of the other popular Burbank players will be found in the cast of "The Dollar Mark."
